Council holds second readings of budget, salary ordinances

Amendment to salaries rejected by 4-2 vote

BY MARK CAMPBELL

Madison City Council held the second reading of its annual budget notice to taxpayers — a projected $12.7 million city budget for 2023 — with funding by property taxes, receipts from the city's TIF districts through the city's Redevelopment Commission and state grants.

The proposal, considered at a special meeting on Wednesday after being tabled at last week's regular meeting to allow time to develop more exact figures, includes funding for all city departments, a number of ongoing development projects and a 5% pay increase for city employees. The ordinance is now scheduled for a third reading and adoption at the council's regular meeting on Tuesday, Oct. 18, but the $12,730,981 package won't become final until November after undergoing a required review by the state's Department of Local Government Finance.

"The goal of our budget process was to develop a really responsible, conservative and balanced budget where appropriations match expenditures," Deputy Mayor Mindy McGee said, explaining the process.

She noted the budget must cover not only actual expenditures but anticipate fluctuations in the costs for operating the city in the coming year. With inflation trending upward, the city's allocations in some areas had to be higher than the 2022 budget.

"Utility costs and fuel have gone up significantly but there is room in the budget for those anticipated increases," McGee said, later noting that if actual expenditures in some areas fall short of budget estimates, those funds can later be diverted to other areas or moved to a rainy day fund if needed.

She said the state requires the city to account for and allocate each dollar of projected revenue even if the city does not plan to spend those funds at this time. "We're not going to spend every penny, but that's the way they look at it," McGee said.

Although the council had delayed the second reading of the ordinance by a week and some figures are more solid now than they were last Tuesday, Mayor Bob Courtney cautioned that the notice to taxpayers is "still based on

There wasn't much impressive about the back side of Madison Junior High School when Madison Mayor Bob Courtney was a student there in the 1970s, but that area has now been transformed into an outdoor classroom and event space allowing an assortment of opportunities for use by the school and community.

"This courtyard didn't look like this when I was in junior high a few years ago," said Courtney, who joined local artist and junior high art teacher Eric Phagan in officially dedicating the space Thursday afternoon.

Courtney, a 1981 graduate of Madison Consolidated High School, had high praise for the newly upgraded space that will be used not only by the school but also available to the community for activities and events.

"I am so proud of this space and what you have done," he said. "It's because you're creating a destination feel, not just downtown where we have a lot of natural amenities there that's been cultivated for many, many years" but by working with the Madison Area Arts Alliance, the Madison Music Movement and the schools "we're bringing that destination development to the hilltop and that energy, and that is what is going to make our community and schools and our children, and everybody that visits Madison thrive. I really look forward to using this

Madison schools to pursue $3.36M bond issue for upgrades

BY BOB DEMAREE

Madison Consolidated School Board held a public hearing a list of projects needed throughout the school corporation and another hearing on up to $3,365,000 in revenue bonds needed to fund that work prior to Wednesday's regular board meeting.

"The school district has been evaluating our facilities and the needs we have that require funding beyond our operations budget," said Superintendent Dr. Teresa Brown. "In order to provide for the renovation of and improvements to our facilities throughout the corporation including site improvements, purchase of equipment and technology, we are proposing the board consider bonds which will allow us to secure the necessary funding for facilities projects."

The proposed renovations and their estimated costs include:

- New roof at Lydia Middleton Elementary School at a cost of $300,000.
- Ventilation and HVAC (Heating, ventilation and air conditioning) improvements along with site improvements for Cub Enterprises at $500,000.
- Continued improvements and renovation of the athletic facilities at Madison Consolidated High School including tennis court upgrades and lighting at $600,000.
- Install a new net on the side of the playground at Lydia Middleton to keeps balls from going outside the playground at $30,000.
- Add controls needed for HVAC at Lydia Middleton at $250,000.
- Add controls needed for HVAC at MCHS at $107,000.
- Install an industrial kitchen in the Cub Culinary Arts program and update the kitchen at a cost of $125,000.

The total for the seven upgrades comes to $1,912,000 with an overall estimate for those projects at $2 million depending on the bids.

Phase two of the work would include upgrading and installing HVAC at MCHS and Madison Junior High School with that work being done with any remaining funding from the overall $3,365,000 bond issue.

Jason Tanselle, municipal bond advisor from Baker Tilly, said the debt service tax on the bond is expected to be 1.16 cents above the current rate, but he said there is anticipation that the operations fund will decrease by the same amount because of assessed value rates, meaning that the overall school tax rate should remain basically the same.

However, Tanselle said that in being fully transparent the 1.16 cent rate increase — based on the county's median home value of $142,100 — would represent a

Local area reports 4 new COVID-19 deaths

Updated booster now available for ages 5 and older

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Four new deaths related to the COVID-19 have been reported in the Courier area — three in Jefferson County and one in Trimble County — increasing the overall death toll for the four-county local area to 276 during the pandemic.

Jefferson County's total is now 160, an increase of three in the last week, while Trimble County has now reported 45 deaths including the one new death this week. Meanwhile, the death toll in Carroll County remains at 51 while Switzerland County has reported 20 deaths during the pandemic.

All four counties continue to show low community spread of the virus, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. In the last week, Jefferson County had nine reported cases of COVID-19 while Carroll County has had seven, and Switzerland and Trimble counties three each. However, with most residents now self-testing using home test kits, the number of new cases reported to the CDC may not reflective of those infections.

Earlier this week, the Associated Press reported Dr. Ashish Jha, White House COVID-19 coordinator, emphasized that eligible Americans should get the updated COVID-19 boosters by Halloween to have maximum protection against the coronavirus by Thanksgiving and the upcoming holidays, warning of a "challenging" virus season ahead.

Jha said the U.S. has the tools — both with vaccines and treatments — to largely eliminate serious illness and death from the virus, but stressed that's only the case if people do their

ISP trooper charged with domestic battery

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Jefferson County Sheriff's Deputies responding to a welfare check in Madison on Wednesday arrested an Indiana State Police Trooper on domestic battery charges involving an alleged altercation with his wife.

Jacob Samuel Tolle

Jacob Samuel Tolle, 33, Madison, was charged with Domestic Battery in the presence of a minor, Strangulation and Communication Intimidation, all Level 6 felonies, in connection with an alleged assault on Laura Knickerbocker at their home on County Road West 150 North.

According to Jefferson County Chief Deputy Josh Taylor, officers responded to the residence when a family members asked for a welfare check due to an alleged argument between Tolle, a trooper with the ISP Versailles Post, and Knickerbocker. He said there were no a serious injuries in the incident and medical treatment was not required but based on witness statements and allegations there was "enough evidence to substantiate the charges" and Tolle was arrested and lodged in the Jefferson County Jail.

Taylor said on Friday that Tolle is being held in an "isolated and segregated" area of the jail and there have been no issues with his incarceration so far. He noted the trooper's primary area of patrol does not involve Jefferson County so that lowers the likelihood that other inmates in the jail have had contact with Tolle.

Tolle is suspended without pay from the ISP pending the outcome of the investigation. He is currently being held without bond with an initial hearing scheduled for Friday, Oct. 18.

Carroll man charged with abusing child on social media

BY THE COURIER STAFF

A Carroll County man has been arrested for criminal abuse of a child under 12 and strangulation, both felonies, after authorities said he posted video of himself physically abusing a 2-year-old boy on a social media site.

Benjamin Franklin, 23, Carrollton, Kentucky, was arrested by the Carroll County Sheriff's Department on Thursday night after authorities were called to Carroll County Memorial Hospital to investigate a report of child abuse.

According to court documents, upon arrival the officers found a child with "obvious visible injuries to his face and to his neck" and the scrapes were fresh. Deputies spoke with the boy's mother, who told them she had been at work earlier in the day when she was contacted by several people who said Franklin had posted a video on his Snapchat account that showed him physically abusing the child.

Benjamin Franklin

The video allegedly showed Franklin "holding the child in the air by his throat and then slamming the child onto the bed," according to court documents.

Police located and arrested Franklin. After advising him of his Miranda rights, the deputies interviewed Franklin about the alleged incident and Franklin allegedly admitted to striking the child several times in the face, picking him up by the throat and choking him and then throwing him down onto the bed. He also allegedly admitted to recording the incident.

Franklin is being held at the Carroll County Detention Center on a $5,000 cash bond. He is scheduled to be arraigned on Wednesday, Oct. 19, at the Carroll County Hall of Justice. Meanwhile, he has been ordered to have no contact with the boy, his mother or their home.

BUDGET

estimates" and the actual 2023 budget will be the version "certified by the state"and returned to the city next month.

That said, Courtney thinks the budget proposed to council Wednesday covers all the bases including the continuation of city services and the reinvestment in parks, infrastructure and community development through tax dollars, grants, bond issues and private investment.

"I appreciate city council's support of the $12.7 million budget that we proposed for 2023. It represents a responsible and conservative approach to managing the city's business given the economic environment that we are in," Courtney said. "The budget focuses on delivering exceptional professional services to the community while strongly supporting our most valuable resource, which is our dedicated city employees. Combined with the financial support from our Redevelopment Commission revenues along with the record level of grants and private investment we have been able to attract, I am confident that our strategic multi-million dollar investment in parks, infrastructure, housing, and streets will continue to elevate our community, making Madison the best place it can be to live, work or visit."

"Overall I think we've got a pretty good budget this year," Councilman Patrick Thevenow commented.

The council also held the second reading and discussed ordinances fixing compensation for elected officials and salaries for appointed officers and employees after tabling both last week to align with the budget notice.

Based on the ordinance, annual compensation for elected city officials in 2023 will include: Mayor: $77,207.05; Clerk treasurer: $67,435.50; City Council (7 total): $7,720.78; and Board of Public Works and Safety (3 total): $1,750.00.

The proposed salary ranges for appointed officers and employees led to a discussion after Thevenow questioned the proposed salary ranges and offered an amendment to reflect new numbers.

According to Thevenow, many of the salary ranges proposed last week are now too high based on the budget updates proposed Wednesday.

"I'd like to see us pull them back down," Thevenow said.

McGee cautioned against lowering the salary ranges, noting that the numbers were adjusted up just last year to avoid having to come back before city council each time a hire or extra pay period caused an issue with hiring or pay. She noted the city hires employees at various skill levels and the wider ranges and higher ceilings are sometimes necessary to make the best hire and remain competitive in the job market.

Courtney agreed: "We're having to compete for hires with other communities and businesses," he said. "We've got an extremely low unemployment rate and we're having to compete for workers ... the council's check and balance is the appropriation; our job is to manage the staff."

Council member Lucy Dattilo agreed, noting it is not the council's place to micromanage operations but to set a budget and allow the staff to manage day-to-day operations.

In the end, the majority of the council also agreed, voting 4-2 against Thevenow's amendment with Thevenow and Curtis Chatham voting "yes" and Dattilo, Carla Krebs, Jim Bartlett and Dan Dattilo opposing with Josh Schafer unable to vote since he was attending the meeting via phone.

"Councilman Thevenow's motion to amend the salary ordinance to effectively eliminate salary ranges would have posed an impractical strain on the administration and council, too, regarding management of city staffing needs," Courtney said on Thursday. "It would have made the process of recruiting and retention unnecessarily difficult leading to disruptions in service to the community. I am happy the council body declined to approve the proposed amendment."

A complete list of the salary ranges was included in the agenda package for Wednesday's meeting and is available on the city's website at: www.madison-in.gov/egov/documents/1665603275_54773.pdf .

The council also heard a fourth ordinance presented on second reading. The Madison Waterwork Revenue Bond was updated with a number of amendments as recommended by the city's bond counsel including making the maximum term of that bond issue 30 years. Courtney said while the bonds will likely be recalled prior to 30 years, the longer offering was recommended to strengthen the city's position leading into the bond sale.

DEATHS

"We are not helpless against these challenges," he said. "What happens this winter is up to us."

So far the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention says only about 11.5 million Americans have received the updated shots, which are meant to provide a boost of protection against both the original strain of COVID-19 as well as the BA.5 variant that is dominant around the world. Jha said studies suggest that if more Americans get the updated vaccines "we could save hundreds of lives each day this winter."

More than 330 people die on average each day of COVID-19, according to CDC data, with the U.S. death toll standing at over 1.05 million.

Jha acknowledged the slower pace of vaccinations, saying, "we expected September to be a month where it would just start picking up." He added that the White House expects more Americans to get the updated boosters this month around the time when they get their annual flu shots. He also emphasized that they should look to get them soon to be protected when they gather with family and friends.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration on Wednesday authorized updated COVID-19 boosters for children as young as 5, seeking to expand protection ahead of an expected winter wave.

Tweaked boosters rolled out for Americans 12 and older last month, doses modified to target today's most common and contagious omicron relative, and now the FDA has given a green light for elementary school-age kids to get the updated booster doses, too — one made by Pfizer for 5- to 11-year-olds, and a version from rival Moderna for those as young as 6.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, which recommends how vaccines are used, also signed off.

Americans may be tired of repeated calls to get boosted against COVID-19 but experts say the updated shots have an advantage: They contain half the recipe that targeted the original coronavirus strain and half protection against the dominant BA.4 and BA.5 omicron versions.

These combination or "bivalent" boosters are designed to broaden immune defenses so that people are better protected against serious illness whether they encounter an omicron relative in the coming months —or a different mutant that's more like the original virus.

"We want to have the best of both worlds," Pfizer's Dr. Bill Gruber, a pediatrician, told The Associated Press. He hopes the updated shots will "re-energize interest in protecting children for the winter."

John Paul Park Cleanup Held on DAR National Day of Service

Members of the John Paul Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution held a park cleanup at John Paul Park On Oct. 11 as their National Day of Service.

To honor the anniversary of DAR's founding on Oct. 11, 1890, chapters and individuals are encouraged to engage in meaningful service projects in their communities each year on or around Oct. 11.

Although there are countless ways to make a difference in local communities on the Day of Service, the local chapter chose a project near and dear to its heart — John Paul Park. Originally a cemetery on ground given to the city by founder — and chapter namesake — John Paul, the land became Madison's first city park in 1904 in a collaboration between the city and the DAR.

The organization partners with the city on special projects for park improvement.

Earlier this month, five iron and wooden benches, previously owned by the Jefferson County Historical Society and refurbished with funds from DAR, were installed in the park by the city.

Joined by City Councilwoman and Parks Board President, Carla Krebs, several members of John Paul Chapter gathered at John Paul Park on the Day of Service and spent the morning picking up sticks and stacking them curbside for city pickup. They also worked to clean commemorative plaques within the park.

"This park is an important park of our cultural history," said Ann Roller, chapter regent, "and we intend to make a cleanup at John Paul Park our annual Day of Service project going forward."

$6.97 tax increase. Likewise, an acre of farm land with a DLGF (Indiana Department of Local Government Finance) assessed value of $1,500 per acre would increase by 17.4 cents per 100 acres and a commercial property valued at $100,000 would see a rate increase of $11.60.

After the project hearing, an additional appropriation resolution was passed for the proceeds of the bonds and a final bond resolution for approving issuance of bonds. Additionally, approval was given to adopt the reimbursement resolution relating to the financing of the project that allows the school corporation to reimburse itself from bond proceeds from any cash it might spend on the project prior to the closing of the bonds, which is required by federal tax law, for the school corporation's ability to reimburse itself.

In other business:

• Tara McKay, former Anderson Elementary School principal who was promoted to director of programs for the school district, has now been transitioned to assistant to the superintendent. Brown said McKay's job basically remains the same as it was as director of programs but as assistant to the superintendent provides a chain of command.

Danica Houze, who has been the school corporation treasurer, has now been named the chief financial officer replacing Bonnie Hensler, who the school board recently voted to terminate. Meanwhile, Amanda Conover, who had been deputy treasurer, has now assumed the role of assistant to the chief financial officer.

An agreement to resolve employment status was approved for Shelli Reetz, who had recently been named assistant director of programs after previously serving as director of student services. Brown said the agreement was made following Reetz's departure from the school district.

Phillip Wimpee was named head wrestling coach. Wimpee, a Madison graduate and former Cub wrestler, has previously served as assistant wrestling coach.

• Approved adoption of the 2023 corporation budget. The total budget is being advertised at $36,240,314 with a tax rate of 1.1772. The budget will be sent to the Indiana DLGF for approval. At the public hearing for the budget in September, Houze said the budget is advertised high to protect the school district because the DLGF will lower the advertised budget, levies and tax rates, but will not raise them. In 2022, the school corporation budget was $35,066,493 with a tax rate of 0.9732.

• Brown reported on bargaining for teacher contracts. "I want to thank our board for their commitment to increasing the salaries of all of our staff," she said, adding there was a meeting with the Madison Teachers Association on Tuesday, and the details of negotiations are not ready to be announced. "I am very excited that we are establishing a great working relationship, and a mutual trust and respect with all of our employees in creating a school district of choice for this district."

• Deputy Elementary School Principal Janet McCreary and other Deputy staff members gave a presentation on that school's progress and goals. McCreary noted that Deputy, which was named a National Blue Ribbon School in 2021, actually posted higher scores in the past year. McCreary said the school's goals for the school year are to improve literacy, improve attendance and improve excellence in mathematics with other initiatives such as increasing parent participation.

"Our story is that we're family," said McCreary. "If you've not been there, it's hard to explain" but when people "walk through our building, there's a welcoming feeling, it feels like home. It's just special. Part of it is being a small school, but part of it is there isn't a staff member that doesn't stop and take the time to get to know a kid, to understand what they're going through. ... truly take the time to listen to them and understand."

• The meeting was the first for student board representative Molly Armbrecht, a senior at MCHS, who will serve in that role throughout the end of this school year in May.

• Observed a moment of silence following the recent deaths of Helen Behymer, health and physical education teacher at MJHS for 31 years; Jim Lee, athletic director and health/physical education instructor at MCHS for 21 years; and Jersie Sever, who was an eighth grade student at MJHS.

space in the future and bringing more of that Madison feel and that magic of Madison. And I can tell you that having lived in Madison all my life, it's truly magical."

The transformation began in 2017 when the area had playground equipment that was no longer being used. Kenton Mahoney, now assistant principal at Anderson Elementary School, was a science teacher at the junior high and worked with local Boy Scout Matthew Burkhardt, then a student at MCHS and working on his Eagle Scout project, to reinvision and remake the area.

Once the playground equipment was removed, Burkhardt led the effort in re-designing the space as his Eagle Scout project with Troop 717, including new landscaping and placing gravel to create a sensory garden. But since Burkhardt also wanted the area to be used by the rest of the school, he built and stained benches to be utilized as an outdoor classroom along with building a podium.

Phagan said Mahoney and Burkhardt "had the idea of turning it into an outdoor classroom and a butterfly garden that can be used by students to get outside in the fresh air and learn, so we've kind of kept that, but changed a little bit to fit the arts, too" along with adding a stage for musical performances and more.

Madison native Freddie Sizemore, a former Madison Junior High School student and professional artist, painted a mural on the courtyard wall. A sculpture designed by Phagan and created by students in conjunction with Cub Manufacturing was also placed in the area. Another dimension was added when Ron Couch, MJHS technology teacher, led efforts to build a stage and create an assortment of new opportunites for use of the space which can comfortably accommodate about 100 people.

"Students will use it as an outdoor classroom," Phagan said. "Staff can use it for meetings or whatever they have going on. Also, band and choir had hold performances and we can have dances out here. It's whatever you want the space to become," he said. " "We could have artists use it as a place to meet with students ... We want it to be an event space for the community."

There will be a suggested donation for community groups using the area to help support continued upkeep, and to continue to make improvements to the space.

Madison Consolidated Schools has provided much assistance but Phagan prefers not to depend on that support. "They helped us a lot but I don't expect them to spend money that's needed for school on space like this," he said.

Phagan said Jane Vonderheide is planning to stage one of her House of Jane songwriter sessions there and they are working with Madison Music Movement to have musicians perform there. Additionally, he said it will be a place for students to perform.

"In the nicer weather months, we'll use it for a little bit of everything," he said.

A Life Insurance Policy Is An Asset You Can Sell

Layin' it on the line

By Stephen Dybwad
Retirement Planning/
Wealth Management

Did you know that you have a valuable asset that is often overlooked and may not be included in conversations regarding your financial portfolio? It's your life insurance policy. Many people are not aware that a life insurance policy is an asset that can be sold with some of the terms being set by the owner.

All too often, life insurance owners surrender their policy to the insurance company instead of getting a quote in the "secondary" market for what it's actually worth. The market value of a life policy can be as much as eight times more than the surrender value! If you have a life policy that is unwanted, unneeded, or has become unaffordable, you can get a quote for the cash value in the open market. Typically, you will have several choices as to the disposition of your policy.

One option is to settle for an all-cash offer and surrender any and all ownership of the policy. Another option is to take a reduced death benefit with a partial cash payout and never pay another premium. This is the equivalent of owning a "paid-up policy" for a reduced death benefit which will still be paid to your beneficiary upon the death of the insured.

Older retirees can sometimes find themselves in need of a lump sum of cash later in life due to health circumstances (i.e., long-term care expenses), divorce, or even debt. These are some of the primary reasons why seniors opt to sell their policy and use the money for these needs. It's your cash and can be used for any purpose. Other examples include investing the cash to generate monthly income, paying for college expenses of grandchildren, or perhaps funding a long-desired family vacation.

One other point to make about selling a life insurance policy in this manner is that this type of sale is not a "viatical settlement." You may have heard this phrase before but not fully understood its meaning. A viatical settlement is where a person with a terminal illness sells their life insurance policy for less than its mature value to benefit from the proceeds (cash) while the insured is still alive. You do not need to be terminally ill to sell your life insurance policy in the open market. However, it is true that if you have impaired health or you are in your mid to late 80's or 90's, your policy can be worth more due to these factors. However, it is not necessary to be ill to take advantage of selling one or more of your life insurance policies. Do yourself a huge favor, get a quote from a qualified insurance agent, and know your options and the value of your policy before you surrender it to the life insurance company.

Switzerland's magical season comes to an end

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

NEW ALBANY — Switzerland County rolled through the regular season and sectional tournament unbeaten and untied, but the Pacers couldn't keep their magical season alive deeper into the postseason, falling 3-1 at Christian Academy of Indiana in the Class 1A Boys Soccer Regional semifinals on Wednesday.

The fifth-ranked Pacers came into the game having allowed just seven goals all season and two in a single game only once. But after 80 minutes of play against the Warriors, Switzerland was not only facing its first loss of the season, but the end of the run as well.

"We couldn't be more proud of this whole team, and specifically our seniors. In their four years here, the growth that they've made within our program, has been phenomenal," Switzerland coach David Todd said. "We came into today as the only team, boys or girls, in the state that hadn't lost or tied a game in any class. I do not think by any stretch of the imagination that we underestimated this team or overlooked this team. Two teams came and played hard and the ball went their way. But I'm very, very proud of the seniors. Just an unbelievable season for them."

David Campbell

Switzerland County's Landon Duckworth (left) wipes his face as the Christian Academy Warriors celebrate at the end of the Pacers' 3-1 loss in the regional semifinals on Wednesday. The loss was the first of the season for Switzerland County in a record 19-1-0 campaign.

Switzerland (19-1) found itself trailing for the first time all season when Christian Academy's high-scoring senior, James Doherty, found the net just 10 minutes into the match for a 1-0 lead. Doherty had gathered a ball that many Pacers felt had gone out of bounds and fired it across the goal. The ball hit the far post and bounced right back to Doherty, who fired it into the net.

If that goal stunned the Pacers, they didn't show it. Switzerland got the equalizer in the 22nd minute when its own high-scoring striker, sophomore Cooper Todd, took a through pass from Aiden Griffith, beat the Warrior defense down the middle of the field and beat goalie Matthew Carter for his 34th goal of the season.

That's where the game stood for the next 30 minutes as the two teams took turns firing shots. Switzerland held an advantage in shot attempts and nearly took the lead on a shot by Todd that just missed off the bar 10 minutes into the second half, but neither team broke.

Christian Academy (12-5-3) finally broke up the stalemate in the 57th minute when Doherty struck for his second goal of the game, a terrific individual play that saw him move into the box and beat keeper Aiden Furnish for a 2-1 lead.

Switzerland continued to pound away to no avail but Christian added a third goal in the 69th minute when Ian McCarty redirected a free kick off the boot of Ethan Clifton for the 3-1 final margin.

The Pacers had 11 minutes left but couldn't score again and their magical season came to an end.

"We haven't played from behind a whole lot this year. This is only the second team all year that's scored two goals on us, let alone three. And by the time they get the third, we're playing more offensively and we're pulling people up so it was a closer game than 3-1," coach Todd said. "But overall, I'm extremely proud. I mean, just I just can't say enough how far these kids have brought this

Slow start dooms Switzerland in 2-0 loss at Providence

David Campbell

Switzerland County goalie Allena Weaver stretches for the ball during the regional tourney at Providence on Thursday. The Pioneers won the game 2-0 to hand the Pacers their first loss of the season. Switzerland closed out the year 16-1-2.

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

CLARKSVILLE — A slow start doomed No. 9 Switzerland County, which saw its undefeated season end with a 2-0 loss to second-ranked Providence in the Class A Girls Soccer Regional at Providence on Thursday.

Whether it was the low sun, high wind or just plain nerves, the Pacers played a slow first half that saw Providence dictate the action throughout the first 40 minutes. The play resulted in the only real goal of the game, a shot by Livy Theobald off a corner kick in the 16th minute to give the Pioneers the 1-0 lead.

Providence (16-2) outshot Switzerland 13-0 in the first half and had five corner kick chances in the first 40 minutes. Needless to say, the Pacers needed halftime to regroup.

"The sun, the wind, not sure what it was. We were a bit frozen in the first half and Providence definitely killed the possession of the ball," Switzerland coach Courtney Dayadharum said. "If we could have had the first half back, I think we would have had a better chance."

Fortunate to be trailing just 1-0, Switzerland looked more like itself in the second half. While Providence still controlled possession, the Pacers began generating chances and nearly collected the equalizer.

Twice Switzerland got free kicks just outside the box and both attempts, taken by Halle Archer, barely scraped the cross bar as they went high. Kenzie Taylor had arguably the best attempt, winning possession of the ball and launching a high-arcing shot from 25 yards out that would have beaten the Providence keeper, but was just six inches past the bar.

Defensively, keeper Allena Weaver kept the Pacers in the game, stopping four good chances and claiming nine saves in the second half alone. Two of the attempts were from within 10 feet.

But Switzerland (16-1-2) couldn't break through and Providence's Ali Wade scored with less than a second to play on a shot from the corner for the final margin.

Providence held an overwhelming 28-6 advantage in shots and 17-2 on goal, but those numbers were much closer in the second half. The Pioneers had seven corners to two by the Pacers and were whistled for nine fouls to five by Switzerland.

Weaver finished the game with 14 saves while Providence keeper Kate Simmons had two saves.

Providence will now take on No. 4 Evansville Mater Dei (12-7) in the regional final at Forest Park today. Mater Dei defeated Washington Catholic 7-0 in the other regional semifinal on Thursday.

Saints aim to spoil Superdome return for Bengals' Burrow

BY BRETT MARTEL
ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW ORLEANS — The last time the Bengals' Joe Burrow and Ja'Marr Chase played in the Superdome, they connected for 221 yards and two touchdowns in LSU's run-away national championship triumph over Clemson — after which Burrow memorably celebrated by puffing on a cigar.

"I hope he doesn't smoke a cigar Sunday," said New Orleans Saints defensive end Cameron Jordan, whose team hosts Cincinnati for a Week 6 clash that has been marked on Louisiana football fans' calendars since the NFL schedule came out.

Jordan, who was drafted by the Saints in 2011 and made New Orleans his family's year-round home, was in the dome on Jan. 13, 2020, when Burrow and Chase helped unbeaten LSU cap off the greatest season in the history of a program that dates back to 1893.

"Of course I was there and saw it," Jordan said. "That has nothing to do with what we have to face Sunday."

Burrow, who also won the 2019 Heisman Trophy at LSU, won't deny his sentimental attachment to the stadium and state where he'll play this weekend wearing Tiger stripes of a different color. But he doesn't expect that to distract him from the task at hand.

"It's a place where a lot of good memories were made. But it's a business trip and we're going in there to win a game," Burrow said. "I'm excited to go back to see all the fans that supported me, but they're not going to be cheering for me this time."

The Bengals (2-3) and the Saints (2-3) both are trying to build some positive momentum after stumbling out of the gate.

"We're finding our stride, slowly but surely," said Burrow, whose team is coming off a narrow loss at Baltimore. "We're learning a lot of lessons from each game."

The Saints are starting to feel the same way.

During a recent three-game skid, the Saints' offense was stagnant for two-and-a-half games. But New Orleans seemed to find a rhythm in the second half of their Week 4 game against Minnesota, when they scored 17 points and narrowly missed a 61-yard field goal attempt to tie it at the end of a 28-25 loss.

The offense continued to roll in Week 5 in a 39-32 victory over Seattle, boosted by big games from Taysom Hill and Alvin Kamara, as well as steady play at quarterback by Andy Dalton, who has started twice since Jameis Winston went out with back and ankle injuries.

"We've been playing in a nice little rhythm," Saints offensive coordinator Pete Carmichael Jr. said. "But it's a long season and we've got to continue to do that."

FAMILIAR FACES

Three former starting Saints defensive players are now with Cincinnati. Safety Vonn Bell and defensive end Trey Hendrickson were Saints draft choices. Cornerback Eli Apple played for New Orleans in 2018 and 2019.

"We love all those guys, miss those guys," Kamara said, but added: "They're the enemy right now."

Bell, who was adept at creating turnovers with New Orleans, has three interceptions and a forced fumble for the Bengals this season. The Saints' 13 lost turnovers are worst in the NFL.

Colts and Jaguars prepare for high-stakes AFC South rematch

BY MICHAEL MAROT
ASSOCIATED PRESS

INDIANAPOLIS — Indianapolis Colts coach Frank Reich understands the ramifications of Sunday's high-stakes bout.

With the Jacksonville Jaguars taking Round 1 of this biannual rivalry, Indy needs to settle the score for a legitimate shot at the larger prize — its first AFC South title since 2014.

And Reich, a boxing analogy fan, fully expects his team to fight.

"It's a big deal. It's a division game, they beat us up pretty bad last time, I think we all understand," he said. "This is about us taking a step and proving we are making the progress we want to make."

It's not been the kind of start Reich or anyone else around Indianapolis envisioned.

The Colts (2-2-1) have allowed a league-high 21 sacks and are averaging a league-low 13.8 points. New quarterback Matt Ryan has 11 fumbles, one short of his single-season career high, and last year's NFL rushing champion Jonathan Taylor hasn't rushed for more than 71 yards since Week 1.

Worse yet, Indy is 0-2-1 in division play as it begins the second half of its six-game rotation this weekend. Yet somehow, Indy finds itself one-half game behind division-leading Tennessee, with a rematch against the Titans looming in Week 7.

Yes, the Colts know something needs to change.

Recently, the Jaguars (2-3) have delivered the knockout blows. They've won four of six in this series, eliminating the Colts from the playoffs in last season's stunning finale and logging the NFL's first shutout this season with a a 24-0 victory in Week 2.

The Colts haven't forgotten.

"Obviously, Jacksonville has had our number and did a great job executing against us in Week 2," Pro Bowl defensive tackle DeForest Buckner said. "But we have a great opportunity to come back this week."

Jacksonville has had the same problem on offense the past two weeks. Those losses sent the Jags falling from first to third in the division, and second-year quarterback Trevor Lawrence received much of the blame after throwing three interceptions and fumbling four times.

What first-year coach Doug Pederson really wants, though, is for Lawrence to counterpunch with a cleaner performance — like Week 2 when his team picked apart the Colts with short, quick throws, a solid ground game and a strong defense.

It could be Jacksonville's winning combination — again.

"There's a balancing act of you don't want to chase ghosts," Lawrence said. "But you've also got to be ready for whatever could come at you because you don't really know."

TRACKING TURNOVERS

The Jaguars have a small margin for error. With Lawrence playing in a new offense as the centerpiece of one of the youngest teams in the league, Jacksonville is not built to play from behind or overcome a lot of mistakes. So it's no surprise the Jags are 0-3 when losing the turnover battle and 2-0 when winning it.

Their best game came against Indy when they were plus-three. They can't count on that happening again.

Curated Christmas list leads to white elephants

AMY DICKINSON ASK AMY

Dear Amy: Every year, I spend time carefully curating a list of Christmas wishes for me, my husband, and our children. I know what we like and need.

In turn, his family gives me their list.

When it's time for presents, my in-laws happily open the gifts for which they asked. They love them!

We open our gifts, and do not receive a single thing from our list. My children receive toys they don't need and clothes I will not let them wear.

Some things are regifted, while others just take up space in my house.

It actually hurts that after 12 years of being part of this family, they still don't know me at all.

We spend a generous amount of money on our family at Christmas, but I'm disappointed and frustrated by their lack of consideration.

Last year, I told my husband that I would only buy gifts for the children of the family going forward; I have not told the in-laws yet.

The downside is that one of the siblings is childless, so they would receive nothing from us.

Should I hold firm and kindly let the family know that children should be the focus of Christmas from here on out, or should I make overt hints to stick to the list and hope for the best, even if I'm disappointed (again)?

— Disappointed

Dear Disappointed: Abandon the list. It's not working. It also subverts the idea of Christmas giving.

You might segue to a non-material gift for adults — donating to a charity on their behalf or giving a subscription or membership to a local museum or cultural institution. If you don't want to give any gifts to adults, in place of your list you can state: "I'm trying to cut way back on the overabundance, and so I'm going to only give gifts to the kids. Enjoying our time together is the only gift I want."

Regardless of how you frame your own wishes, you cannot control what other people give to you.

Woman wants her folks to share her dream

AMY DICKINSON ASK AMY

Dear Amy: I'm a financially independent 27-year-old woman. I work in the beauty industry. My parents do not support my career advancement and skill development.

I attend conventions and trade shows to make connections in the professional world, learn new skills, and keep up with current trends.

It's an investment in myself. My parents express their disappointment and call my efforts a waste of money — and dangerous.

Recently, I was very down because I had to cancel a three-hour trip to a skills development show. I'd spent weeks preparing.

My parents said I should be happy that I saved money by not attending. They refuse to acknowledge this as a lost opportunity.

I've suggested counseling for them, but they don't believe in it. I can't keep stalling my career to appease their comfort.

I've expressed what I need from them. I only want moral support. They refuse.

If I have to hide my interest for professional growth, I don't know how we'll be able to maintain a close relationship.

They're getting older and live a few hours away. I don't want our rare visits to be spent getting yelled at for choosing my path.

— Striving

Dear Striving: I agree with you that counseling would be beneficial — for you.

You are 27 years old. You are doing exactly what you should be doing with your life — charting the course of your own future and working hard to succeed. Where you seem to have strayed from the path is in your reliance on your parents for applause, assent, or moral support.

They won't give it to you, so stop asking for or expecting it.

It is so frustrating when people won't give you what you want, but if you change your focus away from others and train it on your own development, your frustration will also disappear.

ASTROLOGY

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Little things can mean a lot. Indulge your taste for creature comforts and small everyday pleasure that bring happiness. A partner or loved one may be on the brink of making a breakthrough or lifestyle change.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Focus on feeling your most confident whenever you are in the public eye. A new position or status can be impactful. Your job or workplace may be undergoing a significant change and new protocols must be addressed.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — If you see something to do, go ahead and do it. Your imagination knows no bounds so you can put competitive situations into perspective. Your opinion is likely valued by others so your input smooths troubled waters.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — You might feel compassionate if a partner or loved one can't relax and burns the midnight oil. Help them to wind down and chill out if they can. Focus in making your home an oasis of comfort and support.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — The best ventures need the time and space to develop. Your mind may be buzzing with tons of new ideas so any project you begin should quickly take shape. A group of friends can help you add the finishing touches.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Enjoy being the recipient of unconditional love. You can say the right thing at the right time to delight someone who admires you. Steer clear of business contracts and financial agreements for the next several days.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — There is safety in numbers; right now you might be happiest in a group. You may enjoy being the center of attention and the admiration of peers. This is an excellent time to address any health issues and to outline your goals.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — Make the day more fun by inviting friends or family over for a get-together. Surrounding yourself with willing helpers and supporters can make any task easier. Someone might make a surprising revelation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — Be clever and thoughtful. Find a mutually beneficial solution that will make a loved one feel appreciated and help you achieve your own goals. Confide in a close friend if you want to receive clear feedback.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Someone might read too much into your friendly demeanor, but your real romantic ardor can be revealed when you get close. You may not have the bandwidth to deal with someone's secret longings or wishful thinking.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — You should rock as the ref. A friendly outlook and fairness might make you a good choice to step in when two sides arrive at a stalemate. Lend a helping hand at an event supporting your local community.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — The moment of truth might arrive. This might be a good time to discuss and work out details with your partner. Soul searching will reveal whether your goal is attainable or an unrealistic wild goose chase.

ASTROLOGY

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Enjoy chasing a romantic buzz. Innocent flirtations might make the time go faster, but bottom line: you ultimately need to remain loyal to your committed relationships. Keep your money out of harm's way.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Race right along with the pack when it comes to work. You might be tempted to use novel business tactics but will do better in the long run if you stay with the crowd. Find common ground with any adversaries.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — Look for skylights in a glass ceiling. With a little effort, you can climb higher and stand above the crowd. You can set an awesome example as a role model and use your leadership skills to advance your objectives.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Your home may be the center of your social life. Loved ones and family members, however, may take extreme measures if their desires are thwarted. Keep your money in your bank account and avoid new investments.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Stay in your lane and keep your head down. This is not a good time to clash with a boss or authority figure. Concentrate on building a solid network of likeminded friends and companions who will help you achieve your goals.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Be conscientious and respectful when handling your money and possessions. A partner or loved one might imagine that you are clever about negotiations and expect you to get the best deal on their behalf.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — Sweetness can bring both happier and better results. Be kindhearted to please a loved one or use your people skills to make a job or business transaction run more smoothly. Your creativity is enhanced in group settings.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — Your family life might be improved if you become involved in a business network or local group activity. Someone may enjoy some of the perks included with your job or you might learn some useful techniques.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — A companion's keenness for competition could be contagious. Someone may show you how to take the initiative and spark new objectives. Wait for better timing to make investments work on your behalf.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — You may be someone who will dig in so you can get the job done, when others dig in their heels and refuse to budge. Continue to persevere with any project that relies upon persistent effort and commitment.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — It might feel somewhat stressful to get something completed. Put social activities on your to-do list and participate in community events. Money is a tool to use to develop tactics that makes this work for your best interests.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — Someone's sympathy and understanding can make any worries or issues seem to disappear like magic. Your ability to appreciate things of beauty and be in harmony with loved ones might conflict with your business practices.

Hoosiers fire offensive line coach after another poor game

The move comes one day after the Hoosiers (3-3, 1-2 Big Ten) rushed for 29 yards and allowed seven sacks in a 31-10 loss to No. 4 Michigan.

BLOOMINGTON — Indiana coach Tom Allen made a rare midseason coaching change Sunday when he fired offensive line coach and run-game coordinator Darren Hiller.

The move comes one day after the Hoosiers (3-3, 1-2 Big Ten) rushed for 29 yards and allowed seven sacks in a 31-10 loss to No. 4 Michigan.

Hiller was in his sixth season with Indiana and had survived a staff shakeup following last season's dismal 2-10 mark.

Indiana opened this season with three straight come-from-behind wins but has now lost three in a row, largely because of an inconsistent offense and a leaky offensive line that has allowed a Big Ten-worst 19 sacks.

Former Indiana offensive lineman Rod Carey takes over both jobs for the rest of this season. He was hired in the offseason as a quality control coach after spending the previous nine seasons as a head coach, compiling a 64-50 record while earning seven bowl bids.

At Northern Illinois, Carey led the Huskies to four Mid-American Conference division titles, two league championships and the 2013 Orange Bowl.

He played for Indiana's winningest all-time coach, the late Bill Mallory, from 1990-93.

"Rod is a tremendous football coach and leader of young men," Allen said.

"His record as a head coach and offensive line coach speaks for itself. Rod will make an immediate impact and integrate well with our offensive staff."

No. 16 Mississippi State aims to stay hot vs. No. 22 Kentucky

BY GARY B. GRAVES
ASSOCIATED PRESS

LEXINGTON, Ky. — Mississippi State is playing its best football under Mike Leach with three consecutive lopsided victories sparked by strong play on both sides of the ball.

The No. 16 Bulldogs now aim to prove they can do it on the road Saturday night at No. 22 Kentucky, which hopes to be whole again and halt a two-game slide.

Mississippi State (5-1, 2-1 SEC) has rebounded impressively from last month's 31-16 loss at LSU after leading 13-0. Not only have the Bulldogs outscored Bowling Green, Texas A&M and Arkansas by a combined 127-55, the Air Raid offense and 3-3-5 defense have contributed their share of big plays after being unranked just three weeks ago.

Leach believes his team can achieve more.

"We're playing faster than we did last year, though we can certainly play faster," the third-year coach said. "And then defensively, we do a lot of good things and are kind of explosive and powerful. But there's some of the big plays we can definitely shut down, too."

MSU faces a Kentucky squad (4-2, 1-2) suddenly struggling and unsure if quarterback Will Levis will return from a left foot injury that kept him out of last week's 24-14 home loss to South Carolina. The SEC's No. 4 passer is being evaluated daily.

Freshman Kaiya Sheron started last week and was solid at times, but coach Mark Stoops lamented not providing enough around him to be successful. The SEC's No. 3 defense (307.2 yards per game) forced two turnovers but was otherwise flat in yielding a 42-yard touchdown pass and a 24-yard scoring run to the Gamecocks.

"I guess I can talk about until I'm blue in the face, but I think they better do something about it," Stoops said. "I think that has to do with how we played, too. When you play very well, you seem to feed off the energy that is going on the field."

The Wildcats obviously need improvement against record-setting MSU quarterback Will Rogers. The SEC's top QB and new career completions leader (946) is coming off a 395-yard, three-touchdown passing performance in a 40-17 rout of Arkansas and has thrown for 1,133 yards and 12 TDs the past three games alone.

The Bulldogs' defense continued its opportunistic play with two interceptions to up its takeaway total to 12 and tie for the SEC lead.

"They're efficient at what they're doing, so anytime they're in that kind of configuration they can bring a lot of havoc in a lot of different ways, and they have," Stoops said.

JUMP STARTERS

MSU has outscored opponents 66-7 in the first quarter. It's 12-3 under Leach when scoring first. Opponents so far have outscored Kentucky 38-20 in the first quarter before the Wildcats have regrouped to control the final three.

"Our biggest thing is just finishing," Bulldogs running back Dillon Johnson said. "I think that's going to be the key element for us to come out with the W."

FRONT-LINE SUPPORT

Pass protection remains a huge concern for Kentucky, which allowed Sheron to be sacked six times last week and ranks 129th of 131 FBS teams with 25 overall. The Wildcats have tried four different offensive line combinations without much improvement.

RED HOT IN RED ZONE

Mississippi State has been almost automatic inside the 20, converting 20 of 21 chances with 19 touchdowns to tie for 12th in FBS at 95.2%. The Bulldogs have scored on 17 consecutive chances with 14 TDs and leads the nation in red zone TD percentage (90.5%). Kentucky ranks 36th in red zone defense (77%).

MILESTONE WATCH

Rogers need one passing touchdown to match Dak Prescott's school record of 70 from 2012-15. ... Kentucky running back Chris Rodriguez Jr. (2,938 yards rushing) needs 58 to move into fourth place on the school's career list.

SERIES NOTES

The teams have split the past six meetings with each winning at home. Kentucky is 15-9 at home against MSU and won the last home match-up 24-2 two years ago.

Calipari: Tshiebwe to have 'minor' procedure on knee

LEXINGTON, Ky. — Kentucky coach John Calipari says on social media that consensus national player of the year Oscar Tshiebwe will have a "minor" 15-minute procedure to "clean some things up" in his knee.

Calipari did not specify in a Twitter post on Tuesday which knee will be treated. The school did not have specifics Wednesday on how long Tshiebwe will be out. The coach said he sat the 6-foot-9 senior forward for Saturday's practice for a knee issue and again on Monday. Tshiebwe pushed to participate in Sunday's pro day workout before NBA scouts in what Calipari described as "an unbelievable performance."

"He refused to sit out Pro Day and balled out," Calipari wrote. "I made him sit out Mon. and get examined as a precaution. ... Not a big deal, but no dancing at (Big Blue) Madness!" on Friday night.

Tshiebwe was named Associated Press national Player of the Year and collected every major award. The Democratic Republic of the Congo native averaged 17.4 points and 15.1 rebounds per game as a junior.

The Wildcats open against Howard on Nov. 7.

START

Despite the loss, Switzerland County is confident about next year. The Pacers graduate only one player — defender Dakota Richards — and brings back everybody from a team that set the school record for wins and won its second-straight sectional championship.

While Dayadharum knows that her team will still play at a high level next year, she also knows that they will have to change a few things in order to beat Providence, the team that has ousted them from the regional in back-to-back years.

"We're still going to hold our heads high. Providence is a good team. We've got to dig deep and get some tougher games on our schedule to prepare us better for this Providence and teams like them," Dayadharum said. "I can't wait to get to next season already."

SEASON

program to where they've had 19 wins and an undefeated regular season. Just the leadership of our seniors is the key to that. I mean, those guys have just been unbelievable."

Switzerland finished with a 14-9 advantage in overall shots and 7-5 on goal. The Pacers had four corner kick chances to two by the Warriors and both teams were whistled for 15 fouls.

Furnish stopped two shots for Switzerland while Carter had six saves for Christian Academy.

The Warriors advance to the regional championship where they will take on eighth-ranked Forest Park (13-6-1) at Forest Park today. Forest Park defeated No. 7 South Knox 3-2 in the regional semifinals on Wednesday.

Switzerland ends the best season in school history with 19 wins and one loss and graduates six seniors: Levi Curlin, Landon Duckworth, Nathan Furnish, Griffith, Ryan Hughes and Ethan Hussong.

While Todd knows the losses to graduation will hurt, he is also confident in the future of the program moving forward.

"These kids have put themselves in a situation where we've earned respect all over southern Indiana and we'll be back. There's there's no letdown in this program," Todd said. "As disappointing as tonight was, we're extremely excited about the direction of the program."

Why is life expectancy falling in the United States? What are the factors that foster health, prosperity, and wellness? Dr. Cooke shares his insights from decades of research and real-world experiences that reveal clear answers to these questions.

In 2015, Scott County IN was experiencing the largest HIV outbreak in rural America's recent history with an HIV incidence higher than any country in sub-Saharan Africa. Cooke was the only physician in Austin during this outbreak, which occurred as the opioid crisis was taking hold. He led the successful response to the epidemic and brought healing and hope to his community. Cooke will talk about his experiences as his community battled the dual crises and the challenges presented by the political climate and society's prejudices toward impoverished populations. Cooke authored 2021's Canary in the Coal Mine: A Forgotten Rural Community, a Hidden Epidemic, and a Lone Doctor Battling for the Life, Health, and Soul of the People and has been nationally recognized for his work in addressing the unique challenges of serving communities with limited resources
